SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

Missionary Work of the American Organ-tzation—The Good Accomplished. PRILADELPHIA, June 17.—The year of missionary work for the neglected children of our country, in the American Sunday school union, which closed March 1, 1892, was very fruitful in blessing. Sixteen bundred and sixty-four new Sunday schools were organized in places that were previously entirely destitute of religious privileges, con-taining 7,018 teachers and 59,351 scholars. Ald was given to 2,127 other schools, with 14,302 teachers and 135,-299 scholars; while, in addition to this, 4,536 schools that had been before reported were nided, with 25,799 teachers ported were aided, with 25,790 teachers and 200,200 scholars. Besides all this direct Sunday school work, the missionaries of the society distributed by sale and gift 6,458 Bibles and 0,115 Testaments. They made 55,582 visits to families for religious conversation and prayer, and delivered 12,474 sermons and addresses. Sixty-six hundred and seventy-eight conversions were reported as resulting from the evangelistic labors of these carnest and faithful men: them, while regular preaching services quarters in this city his associates were work.
